Electi n/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1, 5-7, drawn to a method of countering oxidation of low density lipoproteins, classified in class 514, subclass various.
- II. Claims 2, 8 and 9, drawn to a method of decreasing triglyceride levels in plasma, classified in class 424, subclass various.
- III. Claims 3, 10 and 12, drawn to a method of decreasing cholesterol levels in plasma, classified in class 530, subclass various.
- IV. Claims 4, 11 and 13, drawn to a method of inhibiting atherosclerosis, classified in class 435, subclass various.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The several inventions above are independent and distinct, each from the other. They have acquired a separate status in the art as a separate subject for inventive effect and require independent searches (as indicated by the different classification). The search for each of the above inventions is not co-extensive particularly with regard to the literature search. Further, a reference which would anticipate the invention of one group would not necessarily anticipate or even make obvious another group.

The remaining groups are directed to different inventions which are not connected in design, operation, or effect. These methods are independent since they are not disclosed as capable of use together, they have different modes of operation, they have different functions, and they have different effects. One would not have to practice the various methods at the same time to practice just one method alone.

As clearly evidenced by the claims themselves, the method of Group I is drawn to a method of countering oxidation of low density lipoproteins which is totally unrelated to the method of Group II which is a method of decreasing triglyceride levels in plasma. Similarly, the method of Group III a method of decreasing cholesterol levels in plasma is again totally unrelated to the method of Group I. Group IV, a method of inhibiting atherosclerosis is also unrelated and has different effects from the other groups.

Groups I-III are directed to different inventions which are not connected in design, operation, and/or effect. These methods are independent since they have different modes of operation, they have different functions, and/or they have different effects. One would not have to practice the various methods at the same time to practice just one method alone.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
